WELCOME TO ColigoCare: A CLINICALLY INTEGRATED NETWORK

A clinically integrated network (CIN) is a physician-led, patient-centered approach to healthcare management and coordination that aims to improve care delivery by aligning physicians across different care settings. ColigoCare – a CIN that was formed in collaboration with Valley Health System – enables the seamless sharing of patient information through shared data, technology and performance benchmarks to deliver higher quality and more affordable care.

Physicians will lead the day-to-day operations of ColigoCare and collaborate with their peers to shape the network's overall Clinical Quality Program; establish the operational procedures for the CIN; and define how participating physicians will work together.

BENEFITS OF PARTICIPATION

Joining ColigoCare also gives physicians the opportunity to:

- Share best practices with your network colleagues;
- Play a leading role in shaping the network's overall Clinical Quality Program;
- Gain access to your patient quality data and reports from population health software to help you continuously improve upon the quality care you deliver;
- Leverage the stability, support and resources of a large physician-centric network, while remaining independent if you choose;

- Have access to a team of centralized care managers to facilitate transitions in care for patients within the CIN contracts, while maintaining control of your patient's overall care;
- Collectively negotiate with commercial health plans and self-funded employers for value-based payments;
- For primary care physicians, be a part of the Valley Health System medical benefits network for employees, with similar terms as those of employed physicians;
- Thrive in value-based reimbursement models focused on effectively and efficiently improving care (i.e., MACRA); and
- Receive assistance with electronic health record interfaces in conjunction with population health software.
